

Celeste K. Miller is a sole practitioner, recently retired from practice with McDevitt & Miller LLP in Boise Idaho. After receiving her law degree in 1980 from the University of Idaho Ms. Miller's career spanned three decades of federal court practice in general civil, bankruptcy and criminal litigation, including private practice at Givens, McDevitt, Pursley & Webb, service as an Assistant United States Attorney for the District of Idaho; and as a Special Assistant United States Attorney throughout the Pacific Northwest.

Ms. Miller has taught topics relating to white collar and bankruptcy crimes extensively, including at the DOJ National Advocacy Center providing training to Assistant U.S. Attorneys, FBI agents, bankruptcy trustees, U.S. Trustee attorneys, paralegals and other federal law enforcement personnel. She has taught Federal Courts as an adjunct professor for the University of Idaho School of Law, and she is a contributing author of the section on bankruptcy crimes for a Bloomberg Law/BNA treatise, Bankruptcy Law.

Recently Ms. Miller co-chaired the committee of the Idaho Law Foundation, which hosted the National High School Mock Trial Championship in Boise, Idaho in May 2016.
